PHILIPP GIVEN POWER TO MAKE UP DEFICITS IN THE APPROPRIATIONS

LEGISLATURE ENDS AFTER PROVIDING FOR DEPARTMENTS

Progressives Regard Measure as Confession That Slashed Appropriations Will Not Carry State

LAST BUSINESS GOES QUICKLY

Much Disputed Plumbing Bill Goes to Death in Thirty Seconds Time

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 14.—Working under high pressure and with desperate haste, the legislature of 1915 finished its work at 12:45 o'clock today and waiting taxicabs hurried the members to trains that had been held for them.

It was a wild morning in both houses. The disorder and dissension that featured the sessions of last night was not in evidence at any time. Only a unanimous desire to get away and to get away quick, bills that had taken up the time of the legislature for weeks and months were ruthlessly slaughtered or instantly passed. The messengers were run to death carrying messages back and forth between houses.

Kill Bill Quickly

The last formal action of the assembly was to kill the plumbing bill, requiring plumbers to be licensed. It was killed in thirty seconds. The governor's bill asking for a blanket appropriation privilege to make up any deficiencies in appropriations for commissions and state institutions in case the funds run short, was passed in a hurry. At last night's session, it threatened to tie up the work for a week. The governor sent a message to both houses asking for its passage and he was in the chambers personally to see that it went over.

Members of the progressive group voted for it last night, taking the position that its presentation was a recognition of their position. The amendment was adopted, and shortly thereafter Senator Burke introduced an amendment, which limited the amount of trust fund indebtedness, which was to be taken up in one year, to $100,000, whereas the original Helm bill already became a law provided that the surplus in the treasury should in the discretion of the three constitutional officers above mentioned be used for the same purpose.

Call of House

When this amendment was adopted by the votes of the administration, Senator Boshard immediately moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the senate had adopted the blanket appropriation in the Whitman amendment. He charged that the administration forces were crawling away from the thing they had stood for in the way of appropriations and that he refused to relieve them any further. This precipitated a call of the senate. Instead of finishing up as was expected the senate after an hour's tussle adjourned, which brought that body together at ten this morning.

In accordance with constitutional demands, a resolution declaring a state tax levy of 1,000 was unanimously adopted today. The side-track depression bill was amended and passed in both houses 27 to 26 in the assembly, and 17 to 8 in the senate. The amendment will leave the city liable for a portion of the cost, limits the bill to cities only and does not affect pending litigation.

MADISON GOLFERS DESCEND ON CITY FOR CUP TOURNEY

Two Score and Two Arrive for Second Match of the Year in Fourth Five-Year Contest

MADISON HAS LEAD OF 33

In Phalanx Arrayed for the Second Contest Are Noted Players of State-wide Renown

George Van Auker, young golf star of the La Crosse Country club, who put La Crosse on the state golfing map at the state tourney in Milwaukee recently, was paired with F. W. Jacobs of Madison, former state champion, in the home and home tourney at the Country club today.

Other pairings were:

Robert Gordon vs. W. B. Roy; F. P. Hixon vs. Max Mason; F. H. Hankerson vs. D. P. Wheeler; P. M. Gelatt vs. A. W. Tressler; Emil Niemeyer vs. J. Frederickson; A. M. Tourtelotte vs. Justice A. L. Sanborn; George W. Burton vs. John Main; Andrew Lees vs. E. E. Parkinson; Alfred James vs. F. Wootton; C. E. Colman vs. Fred Brown; H. J. Hirschheimer vs. E. B. Steensland; J. M. Hixon vs. H. Butler; H. M. Curtis vs. E. E. Garrison; E. Hirschheimer vs. J. F. Kessenich; C. S. Van Auker vs. W. L. Westerman; C. H. Schweizer vs. Paul Warner; H. W. Hirschheimer vs. George Boissard; G. Michel vs. H. Kessenich; G. H. Gordon vs. John Grinde; E. L. Colman vs. J. C. Harper; J. B. Funke vs. George Gary; T. H. Spence vs. W. A. Tracy; Arthur Gelatt vs. D. B. Cantwell; A. C. Gran vs. Justice John Barnes; W. F. Wolfe vs. C. R. Bardeen; H. K. Holley vs. John Bigby; Runt Miner vs. E. L. Swanson; D. S. Law vs. F. L. Kessenich; A. T. Hankerson vs. F. Cressenich; C. W. Lewis vs. John St. John; Rev. C. C. Rowleson vs. Justice R. H. Siebecker.

Two score and two golfers, representing the hopes, pride and ambitions of Madison, armed with brasses, midirons and other such dangerous weapons that form the golfer's artillery, gathered this afternoon at the La Crosse Country club to engage in combat mortal with the best this city can offer, in the second dual-city round for the five-year cup on which Madison already has a one-leg hold.

Lost First Match

In July the La Crosse club invaded the intellectual realms of the Capital City and when the smoke cleared away, the nineteenth hole reached or words to that effect, the local stars were on the short end of a score that read something like 32 up. Hence extreme excitement and a large crowd at this afternoon's contest.

The locals are fighting in their own back yard and know their course from A to Zeta, and at 1:30 when the play started could see nothing but a victory. The new cup, which is the fourth that has been offered since competition between the two cities started 14 years ago, will be awarded to the club having the highest total of points for the five year competition. Madison's lead of 33 that was gained at the jump off will be overcome if Andrew Lees and his cohorts have anything to say about it and have their eyes and muscles in expected shape for the fray.

WILSON CONVINCED OF DESIGNS BEHIND BORDER TROUBLES

Wide Search Being Made for Plotters Said to Be Operating Throughout Country

BORDER "ARMIES" THOUGHT HIRED

Administration Convinced That Certain Interests Have Tried to Stir Up Trouble

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The recent Mexican flurry was a plot to stampede the United States into war, President Wilson has uncovered it. Three hours after his arrival in Washington the Mexican excitement petered out.

The identity of the plotters is not public property as yet, but investigation is under way now, in Washington and in other cities, to discover what interests were behind the flurry.

These facts stand out:

When Secretary Lansing met with South American diplomats in New York to discuss the note to the warring parties in Mexico, the plotters felt that the time for action had arrived. Part of their scheme was to make trouble on the border. The White house knows that, for several years, certain interests in the United States have offered sums to certain "bad men" along the Texas border, if these "bad men" would organize "armies" of American-Mexicans, lead them into Mexico and then turn around and march back into the United States, killing Americans and destroying property and making the American people believe that Mexicans from Mexico were marching on the border states. The present border troubles bear all the earmarks of such a campaign. The interests that advance such a campaign as this may be considered guilty of actual murder.

The white house knows the name of at least one prominent western character who has boasted for many years that he had a standing offer of a large sum of money from certain American interests who might possibly be backed by foreign interests to organize a fake Mexican army of invasion.

At the same time that the border scare was worked up the same plotters succeeded in working up a scare at Vera Cruz.

The white house has learned that at no time were foreigners in danger in that port, but in some manner the plotters stampeded a few of the less cool heads in the navy and ships were headed for "southern waters."

That there are certain interests in the United States who are determined to get the United States into war, at almost any cost, has been clearly proven by the recent Mexican flurry.

If possible these interests are going to be uncovered.

Intervention in Mexico is as far away as ever.

The gunboat Sacramento, Vera Cruz to New Orleans with the Brazilian and Guatemalan ministers and their families on board, is expected in the Mississippi tonight, it was announced.

SCHLABACH SAYS "POISON LETTER" CASE IS CLEARING

Although Preserving Secrecy as to Developments District Attorney Says Mystery Is Near Solution

With the "poison letter" case in the hands of the federal authorities today, officials in command of the case preserved careful secrecy as to latest developments. But, District Attorney Otto M. Schlachbach admitted, the mystery is rapidly approaching solution. He admitted that he was not so much in the dark as he had been when he set the trap which caught Harold McCauley and Arnold Schueller, Tomah young men, who are to be tried on a charge of writing threatening letters to Mrs. Will Kirschner, 121 South Third street, La Crosse.

What evidence concerning the authorship of the "poison letters" he had uncovered in his hasty trip to Sparta yesterday afternoon, he would not say, nor would he comment on Mrs. Kirschner's statement to the TRIBUNE yesterday that she had arrived at a solution of the mystery.

Mr. Schlachbach and Postal Inspector John F. Nicholson, who arrived in the city late yesterday, were in conference this morning on the case.

SISTER FIGHTS TO SAVE GIRL FROM MOTHER'S ANGER

Sensational Hearing in the County Court as Mrs. Mary Dove Seeks to Have Girl Put in School

STOLEN DIARY IS PRODUCED

Half Brother Submits Girl's Private Records to Back His Claim That She Is "Bad"

A little red leather-bound diary, in which Miss Josephine Dove, 17, told of her first automobile ride with a strange man; of her only visit to a wine room and of other "dates" figured in a sensational hearing in county court this morning in which Mrs. Mary Jenkins, 318 Pine street, half sister of the girl, fought an application of the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Dove, and her brothers and sisters to have her committed to a Milwaukee industrial school.

Mrs. Dove admitted, upon questions of Counsel F. E. Withrow, appearing for Josephine Dove, that she had brandished a long butcher knife at her daughter and had threatened to kill her. Raymond Rach, son of Mrs. Dove by her first husband, testified that he had slapped the girl twice when told to by Mrs. Dove.

Judge John Brindley heard the case and set Tuesday morning as the time he would give a decision. Skeletons of the Rach and Dove families, not pertaining directly to the case were introduced. Mrs. Dove testified that two children had been born to her since her second husband died, nine years ago, and that she had forced her daughter, Josephine, to come into close contact with instances of immorality in her home.

District Attorney Otto M. Schlachbach, who did not appear in the court room, was notified of the testimony of Mrs. Dove concerning her relations with men. He did not state what action would be taken in the matter.

Driven from House

Mrs. Jenkins, who left her mother's home shortly after the death of her father, testified that a few days after her father was buried, she and four brothers—they were small then, she said—were driven from home and forced to sleep in the barn.

Mrs. Jenkins asked the court for custody of the girl. She swore that her conduct had been exemplary, in direct contradiction to testimony of Mrs. Dove, her son and daughter, who sat with her in the court room, and frequently interrupted testimony of the defense.

The girl herself told the story of her treatment at the hand of her mother and family, on the witness stand. "My mother called me awful names," she said, "and I had to go away. My mother called me names that no mother should call her daughter, and which made my character as bad as it possibly could be." Miss Dove told the court that she seldom drank anything but milk or "pop."

She is a slip of a girl and appeared in court in an old and faded dress.

Brother Stole Diary

The family of Josephine maintained that she was a "bad girl," but they failed to show instances of immorality other than the red diary of the girl, which she had kept in her private bed chamber. The book was found and confiscated by Raymond Rach.

Josephine testified that she had written the diary, but that with the exception of one visit to a wine room, she had not done wrong. She said that the reason she had made the notation concerning the auto ride, was because it was her first trip in an automobile and that she was joyful over it.

WATCH FOR "BABY DELIVERY" WHEN YOU ARE AT MYRICK PARK

If you're out at Myrick park about 8 o'clock some morning, or along towards sunset in the evening, watch for the "baby delivery" service which twelve young ladies of the city are conducting for the sheer delight of it in connection with the infant welfare camp in the park. It is an interesting spectacle to watch—the big cars rolling up to the doors of the camp for their loads of chubby, smiling "infantry," or discharging those loads in the cool of the morning for a day of watchful, scientific care amid the profusion of toys and playthings with which private generosity has supplied the baby camp.

These are the young women who are in charge of the "baby delivery" service. Misses Mary O'Connell, Magdalene Tillman, Gertrude Ives, Lucile Houthmaker, Esther and Leona Linker, Charlotte Reimers, Ruth Linker, Loretta and Camilla MacWillie, Alice Pryor and Stella Trane.

Many and interesting are the tales they have to tell of the homes from which their daily loads are drawn. And enthusiastically do they recount of the benefits which the fresh air of the park is working for its tiny citizens.

Miss Peterson, visiting nurse, in charge of the camp, told the same thing in sober figures to a reporter today: "The camp has an enrollment of

PEACE IN MEXICO NOW RESTS WITH THE FIRST CHIEF

Appeal for Peace of the Pan-American Conferees Is Cabled Carranza at Vera Cruz

HOPE IS CARRANZA WILL RELENT

Next Move Expected Is a Counter Proposal Which Would Lead to Settlement Among Factions

Points in the Note

1.—When the United States urged peace in Mexico, June 2, it spoke for foreign nations as well as itself.

2.—To prove that it had no selfish aims, the United States asked the Latin-American powers' co-operation in its latest effort.

3.—Believing the Mexican masses are uninterested in the military leaders' rivalries, the United States and the Latin-Americans urge the former to inaugurate a peace movement.

4.—The people are urged further to set up a constitutional government.

5.—The conferees will recognize this government and give it moral support.

6.—As Mexico's next friends, the conferees confidently expect a favorable reply within a stated period.

BY CHARLES F. STEWART

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—General Carranza has received his neighbors' last word in the way of a friendly suggestion for peace again in Mexico.

The Pan-American appeal was delivered to him today at Vera Cruz. Upon his action alone, officials admitted, largely depends their hope for a conference which may result in re-establishing orderly government south of the Rio Grande.

While the first chief's defiant, uncompromising, almost belligerent attitude has not made officialdom overly optimistic, the administration still thinks there is a chance that he will prove responsive to its overtures. The next move expected from him is a counter proposal which may be the entering wedge for negotiations leading to an agreement between the factions.

The Pan-American appeal was sent in Spanish directly to Carranza, Villa and Zapata. Other copies, in English and Spanish, are being forwarded to governors of all Mexican states, military and civil authorities and diplomatic representatives of all countries in Mexico.

Reports that several European governments with considerable property interests in Mexico have been sounded out, were confirmed today. While the European nations have taken no official part in the negotiations, it was stated that they offered no objections, and, if success results, will file claims with any new government established for property losses.

The battleships New Hampshire and Louisiana are due Sunday at Guantanamo.

VON HINDENBURG IS CAPTOR OF STRONG DEFENSIVE WORKS

Little Resistance Offered by Russian Line from Kovno to Brest Litovsk

CRITICS PREDICT QUICK END

Belief Is Germans Will Be Withdrawn for Action on Another Front

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Aug. 15.—General Von Hindenburg's troops, attacking the fortress of Kovno, have stormed and captured the fortified forest of Dominkanka, in front of Kovno.

"North of Novo Georgievsk," said this afternoon's official statement, "we stormed and captured a strong outpost position taking 1800 prisoners."

The second phase of the combination on the eastern front is drawing rapidly to a close—the Russian center giving ground with little resistance in its retreat to the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line.

Attacking the Russian "wings" are Von Hindenburg and Mackensen, the two greatest generals Germany has produced in the world war. Kovno is being subjected to terrific assault under the eye of Von Hindenburg, and there is not the slightest doubt here that the fortress must succumb.

Military critics here believe the operations against Russia will be entirely completed within a few weeks.

They do not expect to see any march on Petrograd, despite the fear of a drive on the Russian capital, felt in the allies' capitals. The general opinion here is that Russia already has been dealt a blow from which she can scarcely recover before the allies are forced into negotiations. The popular demand is that Germany shall wheel her armies into a new campaign on another front.

The Von Hindenburg-Mackensen movement will not be halted until Kovno is pounded to pieces and all the fortresses of the Kovno-Brest Litovsk line have fallen before the German attack, military men here believe those victories constituting the final phase of the stupendous Austro-German campaign in the east.

With Brest Litovsk and the Kovno fortress line held by German troops no offensive on the part of Russia is anticipated for the balance of the war. The fall of Warsaw left to the Slavs only Brest Litovsk as a base for operations of her field armies. Should Brest Litovsk be surrendered to the Austro-Germans, the grand duke's armies will be scattered and unable to concentrate effectively in any great offensive campaign.

Ostrolenka Reported Taken

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung this afternoon claims that the Russian fortress of Ostrolenka is in the hands of the Teutonic army. It stated that the Grand Duke's forces still hold Ossowiec to the north.

LAW RESIGNS AS DIVORCE COUNSEL

Attorney D. S. Law, divorce counsel in circuit court, and member of the law firm of Gordon, Law and Gordon, today tendered his resignation as divorce counsel to Judge E. C. Higbee.

Mr. Law is resigning from the position, he stated, because divorce counsels or business partners of a divorce counsel are not allowed by law to give advice in divorce actions. Mr. Law was appointed by Judge Higbee following the resignation of Attorney James Thompson. Judge Higbee is out of the city and it is not expected that a new appointment will be made for some time.

MISS FLORENCE COX MARRIED AT BEDSIDE OF HER SICK FATHER

On the sickbed from which physicians have told him he can never rise, Supervisor L. B. Cox of Onalaska last night witnessed the marriage of his daughter Florence to Lester Gould. The ceremony took place at the urgent request of Mr. Cox, who feared he might not live to see his daughter marry the man of her choice if the date of the wedding was not advanced.

Rev. A. F. Gilbert, pastor of the Onalaska Congregational church, of which Supervisor Cox has been a life-long member, performed the solemn ceremony. Mrs. Hartley Rand, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gould, parents of the bridegroom, Reuben Cox, an attorney from Quinton, Okla., and Mrs. Robert Griswold, Brooklyn, N. Y., brother and sister of the bride; a trained nurse and a few other relatives were in the room.

Rev. Gilbert conducted the wedding as briefly as possible. The nurse, in whose care Supervisor Cox has been since his attack of heart disease last Sunday, tenderly lifted his head on pillows, that the aged man could witness the ceremony. As Rev. Gilbert's blessing closed the ceremony, the former assemblyman fell into a deep sleep.

Dr. R. E. Flynn, attending Supervisor Cox, gave out the statement to-day that his condition was about the same. Supervisor Cox attended the funeral of Joseph Gale Sunday against the will of his family. He was not feeling well at the time. The following day he was taken with an acute attack of heart disease, which had bothered him in the past.

Meat in Japan.

It is only within a recent period that meat has come to play a part in the Japanese diet. Fish, flesh and fowl were once strictly forbidden as articles of food by the tenets of Buddhism, but gradually one after another came to be allowed as eatables. Even now meat, although becoming more and more popular, is not used in large quantities at one meal. Chicken, game, beef, ham and pork may be found on sale in most large towns and cities. But beef is cut into mouthfuls and sold to Japanese by the ounce; chickens are carefully and minutely dissected and sold by parts—as the wing, leg or an ounce or two of the breast. It was a matter of great surprise to the natives of Mito that the foreigners living there bought a whole chicken or five or six pounds of beef at a time and consumed it all in two or three meals.

New Finish for Concrete Floors.

A new finish for concrete floors where a hard surface and a dustless one is desired consists of 95 per cent of iron dust or iron flour. It is added to the dry cement in the proportion of 15 to 25 pounds to each 100 pounds, and one part of the mixture is used with two parts of sand. This preparation is applied as a top coat to a thickness of one-half to one inch. It forms a hard and durable floor, claimed to be waterproof and not slippery. This composition is also made use of where it is desired to make new concrete unite with old.

World's Deepest Well.

The deepest well in the world is at Cruchow, in the coalfield of upper Silesia. America has three wells ranking next in order. The Cruchow well is more than 7,345 feet below the surface; one near McDonald, Pa., some ten miles southeast of Pittsburgh, is 6,860 feet deep.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A ROSE OF MEXICO

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The night when Ramon Baeza slipped from his saddle in front of the ranch house, Cecelia felt the first tug at her heart strings since she had come to Texas.

Four years ago it was now. She had been eighteen then. Bob, her brother, had been running bachelor's hall for three years, while his four sisters stayed back home in Vermont, as Bob said, wasting their time while their one and only brother pined for lack of gentle company down in the wilds of go CIs, as he called her, had been the one who felt the call of duty.

"And she ain't never been sorry," Bob told Senor Baeza that first night as they stood together out on the adobe porch smking in fraternal fashion. "I've got more cattle than I'll ever count. The beef trust never hits me, and it'll all go to CIs when I cash in."

"You will marry some time, yes?" queried Baeza.

"Not if I know it first," Baeza smiled, showing his even teeth pleasantly.

"Yet you may. I say that also. My sister Dolores will have all I have. Over the border is my hacienda, senor. I have not suffered so much depreddation during the war time. I am wise, I mind, as you say up here, my own business, yes?"

"Don't want to buy up any horses, do you?"

Ramon shook his head. "I am not north for buying. I travel to Corpus Christi to bring my Dolores from the convent there. When we return this way, I will show you the rose of Mexico, senor." Bob forgot the promise, but day after day as CIs sat out on the cool stone porch, she watched the road that wound eastward through the wash where the sluggish river flowed. She wished with all her heart the senor would come back that way. Almost she believed from the look in his eyes as he had said good-bye, almost she believed that he would surely come.

Then came a still twilight hour, with a slip of a new moon showing faintly in the amber and jade sky, and two horses coming up the road, with the senor and his girl sister. CIs ran down to meet them and took Dolores in her arms. Bob stood watching them both, his keen gray eyes half closed.

"Such a child, senor," CIs cried, in her brisk, hopeful way. "Why is she so sad?"

"We have lost our father in the war, back in Chihuahua," he told her, resting one booted foot on the steps. "Our mother lived a month afterward, so we two are alone. You must be very sweet to her, my senorita."

CIs flushed at the caressing tone and the look in his eyes.

"I love her even now," she answered. "I wish you both could stay here awhile."

Bob would not listen to them going for a week at least. Big, long-legged Bob, twenty-nine years old, with the fibre of rock-ribbed Vermont in his being, would flush to the roots of his curly, straw-colored hair every time the senor spoke of leaving.

"Oh, pshaw! Don't talk of going yet. It does the two girls good to be together. Stay along, Baeza. Glad to have you."

"You like Dolores, don't you, Bobbie?" CIs asked one night, coming up as he leaned against the wall, with a rose in his hands. "Like her pretty well, don't you?"

"I sure do," Bob answered, distractedly. "She makes my heart strings tingle as she would a guitar. Heard her singing last night when you and Handy were in there washing dishes. Geo. CIs, it made me feel awful queer—most as if she belonged here."

CIs frowned, looking over to where the purple border lay southward. "Maybe you'll be thinking of marrying—"

Bob slipped his arm around her quickly.

"I won't either. Haven't I got the best little sister in the world? What do I want to get married for?"

"I know all about that," CIs sighed. "Still—"

"Still what? Has the senor been sort of courting around you, CIs?"

CIs flushed with swift betrayal and ran laughing out of sight, with Bob's words ringing in her ears. But the next day in the garden, while she worked among her rosebushes and sparse pansy beds, Dolores followed her around.

"It is glorious to have a brother, is it not?" she sighed. "We must be very loyal to them, for they need us greatly. If I were to marry—certainly I will never marry—but if I were to marry, Ramon would almost die."

Cecelia's hands went faster. "They're fearfully dependent creatures," she answered. "Bob wouldn't know his head from his heels if I wasn't right there to tell him which was which. I'll have to stay right here and take care of him."

"But if he should love, senorita? It would be very hard for you?"

"No, it wouldn't. I'd go back home and teach school again."

"And you would not mind at all?" Something in the eager, joyous tone made CIs look up. It had not occurred to her that Bob might be interested in this slender, dark-eyed girl from over the border. And her own face grew tender as he smiled up at her.

"Why, I guess I shouldn't mind; not if she was mighty sweet."

Down the road there came the sound of horses galloping up from the south below the roll of land that sheltered the ranch. The girls rose from their knees and watched the riders stop over near the corral where Bob and Baeza were. But Bob went to meet them without fear or worry on his good-natured face.

Curl Burton was the leader. As he talked to Bob, he looked over where CIs stood and waved his hat to her, but she stood silent, chin up, waiting.

There had been a fight along the border, Curly said. Rustlers had stolen over and cut over a hundred horses. His cowboys had pursued him and there had been a running fight. Five men lay dead down the wash, their faces upturned to the sunlight. It had been decided best for the community at large to drive every last Mexican back over the line. And they had heard that Bob had a couple there.

"Yes, I have," Bob said calmly. "The young lady I am going to marry and her brother. What you got to say to that, Curly?"

Dolores heard, and her hand reached out for CIs.

"You got all the horses back?" asked Bob. Curly grinned reminiscently.

"Yep. And some of theirs, too."

"Then drop it. These are my guests." He stood watching the boys side on, and Baeza came toward him. "They would have shot me, yes?" he asked genially. "You are very kind senor, very faithful. I am no bandit, no revolutionist. I have been plundered alike by Villa and the others. It has been peace here at your ranch. I have lingered because I love your sister. I have already told her, but she is loyal and tender-hearted. She will not leave you alone, she says."

Bob leaned back his head and laughed.

"I got the same answer last night from Dolores, but still I got her promise. You are slow, Baeza. Go tell her now we will make it a double wedding."

Japanese Entertainments.

Stage management in Japan is somewhat eccentric. When an actor is killed during the play a man in black rushes on and holds a large cloak before the supposed corpse, who rises and runs off the stage. The scenes are never shifted, but the whole stage revolves upon wheels; while between the acts the children among the audience rush behind the curtain and play until the drum beats for another act. The performance begins at 10 a. m. and the audience provision themselves for 24 hours, curling themselves up on mats and smoking.

False Spinal Meningitis.

Meningitis is an inflammation of the membranes (meninges) covering the spinal cord. According to its distribution the name is modified: it is cerebral meningitis when affecting the brain and cerebro-spinal meningitis when the spinal cord is involved. It is a dreadful disease, but it is rarely met. Many worried parents and doubtful doctors have mistaken the imitations for the genuine.—Dr. Maude Kent, in Modern Priscilla.

THIS KICK NOT JUSTIFIED

Adverse criticism of an enterprise which serves so good a purpose and has attained so great popularity as has the open air concert program in La Crosse should at least have for its basis a knowledge of facts relating to it.

In an evening paper Mr. Emil Briebach is credited with the following interview:

"I am a citizen and a taxpayer. I believe in patronizing home industry—home factories, home retailers and, if you please, home bands. Times are not of the best and our La Crosse musicians need all the work they can get. I am not speaking in favor of any band in particular. The Andre-Kreutz band, the North Side band and the Normal band, all might be used. The Normal band was called on when it was ready to entertain free. Why not give it a chance to earn a little of the money which is now going to West Salem, and possibly other points?"

The money to support the concerts was raised as follows: $750 by popular subscription; $250 appropriated by the city council, and since of the latter $250 the sum of $50 is to defray the expense of the dedication of the well system, the city's actual investment is $190.

Mr. Briebach's name does not appear in the list of donors who gave the $750, so it must be presumed that his right to criticize is only as a taxpayer, and is limited to the $190 put in by the city.

Since the Kreutz-Andre La Crosse band alone has already been paid $212 for eight concerts, we take it that this eliminates Mr. Briebach as one qualified to criticize on the score of home industry. The North Side band was also employed, and paid; the Normal band did not play free, as Mr. Briebach assumes, but receives $25 for its work. All these local bands will be employed again, and to them will be paid the bulk of the $1,000.

Thus it will be seen that Mr. Briebach never had a right to kick as a subscriber, because he gave nothing; that his right to object as a taxpayer is exhausted many fold. Nor has he any right to complain as a North sider, for while two North side concerts have been given and more are scheduled, the total to cost far in excess of the city's total contribution of $190, not a dollar of the $750 gift fund was raised in North La Crosse. We believe that many North siders would have been glad to help, but only a few were asked and as the money was secured before a campaign in that section had been arranged, their generosity was not drawn upon.

Alderman Funk's reasons for giving a few engagements to bands from near-by cities is sound. It rests upon the importance of maintaining close and friendly relations among all the cities and towns constituting a trade area having mutuality of interests. No better way presents itself than this idea of enjoying the excellent musical entertainment some of these cities and villages offer. And when it is considered that the men who donated the $750 for music are deeply interested in the good will of our neighbors it may be submitted that they are paying for the privilege of promoting that good will and are entitled to the privilege of doing so.

We are in full sympathy with Mr. Briebach's belief that home industry should be encouraged and that so far as possible home money should be spent at home. We have a notion, however, that had he known all the facts he would not have authorized the interview which occasions this discussion.

JANE MUST BIDE HER TIME

Jane Addams, the famous Chicago woman who was the leader of the woman's peace congress at The Hague, does not profess to have any definite peace plan. She has an idea, or a policy, however, which she has suggested to the president, and which she thinks might lead to cessation of hostilities.

"I believe," says Miss Addams, "that if a commission could go and sit in some neutral country, survey the whole subject from the standpoint of the needs of the situation—not from a nationalist point of view—and then submit a proposition to each of the powers involved, it would open the way to negotiations and might lead to ultimate peace."

She would not necessarily have President Wilson name such a commission. It would be better, she thinks, if it were appointed by some "international body, such as the judges of the neutral countries represented in The Hague court."

Unquestionably the existence of such a body, sincerely neutral and always on the job waiting and "tempting" the belligerents to stop fighting, would exert a strong influence for peace. It might be the best possible mechanism for achieving that purpose—when the time is ripe. But in spite of Miss Addams' optimism, it is not evident that the powers are yet ready, or will be ready soon, to welcome peace proposals. Germany alone has won advantages upon which to base demands for an acceptable peace. For the allies to talk peace now would be to surrender everything.

NAUGHTY DANCE SHOCKS JUDGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Miss Primrose Trainer, 22, was haled before Magistrate McGuire, charged with giving an immoral dance on the street corner. Primrose said it was the perpendicular two-step.

"Let's see it," said the court. Primrose began.

"Stop!" cried the magistrate. "Six months!" he added.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Almost Time for Northern Michigan (Janie Osborne, Master Sneezer, in Hay Fever Association Report.)
 When it's ninety in the shade
 And you're lifeless as a spade;
 When the air is full of dust
 And your head's about to bust;
 When you're longing for a breeze,
 And you sneeze and sneeze and sneeze—
 You've got it!

When your brain is all a-fire,
 And your head seems bound in wire;
 When your eyes can't bear the light
 And your face is swollen tight;
 When your nose is all a-glow
 And you blow and blow and blow—
 You've got it!

Then keep on till morning light;
 When there's no chance for rest
 With a ton weight on your breast;
 When your eyes refuse to sleep
 And you weep and weep and weep—
 You've got it!

When you've all you can endure
 And your friends come with a cure;
 Too worn and weary to resist,
 You take each as they insist;
 When you know it's useless to try,
 And they lie and lie and lie—
 You've got it!

Returned Retainer

A guest was expected for dinner and Bobby had received 5 cents as the price of his silence during the meal. He was as quiet as a mouse until, discovering that his favorite dessert was being served, he could no longer curb his enthusiasm. He drew the coin from his pocket and rolling it across the table, exclaimed, "Here's your nickel, mamma, I'd rather talk."

Silence Saved Trouble

A group of workmen were passing the dinner hour in a political argument. An interesting deadlock had been reached, when one of the men turned to a mate who had remained silent during the whole of the debate. "Ere, Bill," he said, "You're pretty good at an argument. What's your opinion?" "I ain't goin' to say," said Bill. "I thrashed the matter out before with Bob Jones." "Ah," said the other, "and what did you arrive at?" "Well," said Bill, "Bob, he arrived at the hospital, and I arrived at the police station."—Monthly Monthly.

Cause for Worry

A party of soldiers bound for "somewhere in France" were waiting for their train at a rural station in Wiltshire. Among the lookers-on were an old countryman and his wife. Walking slowly past the warriors, the woman eyed them carefully, her attention being mainly paid to their puttee clad legs.

"I say, Garge," she whispered

LITTLE PIMPLES ON CHILD'S FACE

Itched and Child Scratched. Could Not Leave Them Alone. Something Terrible, Used Cuticura. In a Month Child Was Healed.

Merle Beach, Mich.—"My little daughter was nearly two years old when she had little pimples come on her face. It was just a little red bunch when it first started. I think they must have itched for she would scratch them until she would get to be large sores, nearly as large as a ten-cent piece. It seemed as if the poor girl could not leave them alone; if we held her hands she would try to rub her face on something else. It was just terrible.

"I used most everything I could think of and everything anybody told me to use and nothing would help her. I decided to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment and before I had used them one week I could see they were healing. Before a month was up you would never know the child had ever had any sores on her face." (Signed) Mrs. Lewis White, June 22, 1914.

Admonished by Conscience

In spite of scoldings, Helen persisted in running away from home. One day, after a longer absence than usual, her mother asked:

"Helen, dear, does not your conscience trouble you when you are running away from mother?" explaining that her conscience was a little voice speaking within, Helen answered:

"Oh, yes, mamma; that little voice is always saying, 'Run faster, run faster, Helen, your mother is after you.'"

She was gone. Minot stood alone on the balcony. He was dazed, blind, trembling. He had refused the girl without whom life could never be worth while! Refused her, to keep the faith!

He entered upon the bright scene inside, slipped unnoticed to the elevator and, still dazed, descended to the lobby. He would walk in the moonlight until his senses were regained. Near the main door of the De la Pax he ran into Henry Trimmer. Mr. Trimmer had a newspaper in his hand.

"What's the matter with the women nowadays?" he demanded indignantly. Minot tried in vain to push by him. "See what those London suffragettes have done now?" And Trimmer pointed to a head-line.

"What have they done?" asked Minot.

"Done? They put dynamite under the statue of Lord Nelson in Trafalgar Square and blew it sky-high. It fell over into the Strand—"

"Good!" cried Minot wildly. "Good! I hope to hell it smashed the whole of London!" And, brushing aside the startled Trimmer, he went out into the night.

It was nearly twelve o'clock when Mr. Minot, somewhat calmer of mind, returned to the De la Pax. As he stepped into the courtyard he was surprised to see a crowd gathered before the hotel. Then he noticed that from a second-floor window poured smoke and flame, and that the town fire department was wildly getting into action.

He stopped—his heart almost ceased beating. That was her window! The window to which he had called her on that night that seemed so far away—last night! Breathlessly he ran forward.

And he ran straight into a group just descended from the ball-room. Of that group Cynthia Meyrick was a member. For a moment they stood gazing at each other. Then the girl turned to her aunt.

"My wedding dress!" she cried. "I left it lying on my bed. Oh, I can't possibly be married tomorrow if that is burned!"

There was a challenge in that last sentence, and the young man for whom it was intended did not miss it. Mad with the injustice of life, he swooped down on a fireman struggling with a wabbling ladder. Snatching away the ladder, he placed it against the window from which the smoke and flame poured. He ran up it.

"Here!" shouted the chief of the fire department, laying angry hands on the ladder's base. "What you doing? You can't go in there."

"Why the devil can't I?" bellowed Minot. "Let go of that ladder!"

He plunged into the room. The smoke filled his nostrils and choked him. His eyes burned. He staggered through the smoky dusk into another room. His hands met the brass bars of a bed—then closed over something soft and filmy that lay upon it. He seized the something close, and hurried back into the other room.

A fireman at another window sought to turn a stream of water on him. Water—on that gown!

"Cut that out, you fool!" Minot shouted. The fireman, who had suspected himself of saving a human life, looked hurt. Minot regained his window. Disheveled, smoky, but victorious, he half fell, half climbed, to the ground. The fire chief faced him.

"Who was you trying to rescue?" the chief demanded. His eyes grew wide. "You idiot," he roared, "they ain't nobody in that dress."

"Damn it, I know that," Minot cried.

He ran across the lawn and stood, a panting, limp, battered, ludicrous figure before Cynthia Meyrick.

"I—I hope it's the right one," he said, and held out the gown.

She took his offering, and came close to him.

"I hate you!" she said in a low tone. "I hate you!"

"I—I was afraid you would," he muttered.

A shout from the firemen announced that the blaze was under control. To his dismay, Minot saw that an admiring crowd was surrounding him. He broke away and

Was this ridiculous farce never to end? As if in answer, a distant clock struck twelve. He shuddered.

CHAPTER XJ. "Please Kill."

Early Tuesday morning, while Mr. Minot still slept and mercifully forgot, two very wide awake gentlemen sat alone together in the office of the San Marco Mail. One was Manuel Gonzale, proprietor of that paper, as immaculate as the morn; the other was that broad and breezy gentleman known in his present incarnation as Mr. Martin Wall.

"Very neat. Very neat indeed," said Mr. Wall, gazing with evident approval at an inky smelling sheet that lay before him. "It ought to do the work. If it does, it will be the first stroke of luck I've had in San Marco."

Gonzale smiled, revealing two even rows of very white teeth.

"You do not like San Marco?" he ventured.

"Like it? Does a beheaded man like the ax? In a long and golden professional career, I've never struck anything like this town before for hard luck. I'm not in it twenty-four hours when I'm left alone, my hands tied, with stuff enough to 'make your eyes pop out of your head. That's pleasant! Then, after spending two months and a lot of money training Lord Harrowby for the family fools, I finally cop them. I give the crew of my borrowed boat orders to steam far, far away, and run to my cabin to gloat. Do I gloat? Ask me. I do not gloat. I find the famous Chain Lightning's Collar is a very superior collection of glass, worth about twenty-three cents. I send back the glass, and stick around, hoping for better days. And the best I get is a call from the owner of my yacht, with orders to vacate at once. When I first came here I swore I'd visit that jewelry store again—alone. But—there's a jinx after me in this town. What's

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Detroit Electric

Doubled output for 1916 reduces prices as low as $1975

As this town has electricity it is a practical Detroit Electric car town. Long stretches of paved streets are not a necessity for this car with its great power and remarkably easy riding qualities. Detroit Electric owners have demonstrated that it is just as good for interurban motoring as it is for driving about town.

August 15 we reduce the price $600 to $725 per car

Remember—these are the same high quality cars as our 1915 models plus a score or more of 1916 refinements. Even while lowering the price, we bettered the car. In the 1916 Detroit Electric, you will find—we believe—the top place-car of its type. We urge you to match it—if you can—in elegance, quality, utility, or value in the entire closed car field—gasoline or electric. This price reduction is possible only because of doubled output.

Investigate the Detroit Electric at once—and learn why the 1916 Detroit Electric is the preferable car for you. Current for battery charging is furnished by your central power station at low rates ($5 to $7 per month) and is growing lower constantly.

Local dealer for Detroit Electric Cars will be appointed in the near future and announcement made of the appointment immediately thereafter.

Koppelberger Arranges to Bring "Birth of a Nation" to the Majestic

WILL BE SHOWN FOR ONE DOLLAR

Great Spectacle Will Play Here for Half of Price Paid by Residents of Large Cities

The moving picture universally acknowledged to be the supreme masterpiece of the photo-dramatic art, "The Birth of a Nation," is coming to La Crosse.

This announcement was made yesterday by Manager F. L. Koppelberger of the Majestic theater, who said that he had procured David W. Griffith's great historic spectacle for the week of November 14.

Incidentally, Mr. Koppelberger said the "Birth of a Nation" will be shown in La Crosse for a dollar. In New York and Chicago the play is still attracting huge crowds at two dollars for the best seats. It is in its eighth month in New York. "The Birth of a Nation," is the masterpiece of David Ward Griffith, who is acknowledged as the leading moving picture producer of the world. It is an eight reel historical play, based upon the days of reconstruction in the south following the civil war. The scenes of war and violence are the most elaborate, convincing and spectacular ever produced. The great battle of Petersburg, with thousands of men on either side, is reproduced on the actual scene of its occurrence in the most thrilling battle picture ever screened. The assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, and the scenes surrounding that tragic event, are also realistically portrayed.

Rev. Thomas Dixon's familiar novel, "The Clansman," was the basis of Griffith's production, but "The Birth of a Nation" goes much farther than the story on which it was founded. The clash between the negroes of the south, drunk with their unaccustomed freedom, and the southern whites, and the organization of the Ku Klux Klan are all incorporated into the picture.

"The Birth of a Nation" comes to La Crosse as one of the first smaller cities it has reached. It carries its own orchestra of eleven pieces, and a carload of sound effects. Manager Koppelberger considers himself fortunate in having obtained the picture, since efforts of Winona managers and others in this territory have been unavailing to contract for its production within a year.

Boys and Midgets of Rival Playgrounds Will Contest at Copeland Park This Afternoon

The last inter-playground track and field meet of the summer will be held at Copeland park at 2:30 this afternoon. Many contestants from the boys' and midget's classes have entered, and a bitter fight for supremacy on the oval is expected.

The events to be run off include a high jump, broad jump, eight potato race, 70 yard dash, and a half mile relay race, for the boys' class. The events in the midget class are the same as in the older class, except that a 50 yard dash and a quarter mile relay race have been substituted for the longer runs.

A Philadelphia mathematician has figured it out that the telephone companies lose 125 hours' work every day through the use of the word "please" by all operators and patrons. Another has discovered that the froth on the beer pays the freight. But as yet no one has estimated the total horse power wasted in swallowing cigarette smoke and forcing it through the nose instead of blowing it from the mouth. —Newark News.

Founder of Big
Plow Works Today
Ends 75th Year

Three-quarters of a century of active life, all but sixteen years of the seventy-five having been spent in La Crosse, were completed today by A. Hirschheimer, president of the La Crosse Plow company. Since 1865, when he took charge of the La Crosse Plow company, Mr. Hirschheimer has been intimately connected with the industrial growth of the city, and he has seen his youthful venture grow to be one of the largest independent agricultural machinery manufacturing concerns in the country.

Albert Hirschheimer was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1840. His education was obtained in his native city, which he left at ten years of age when his parents emigrated to America. They located first in Blairsville, Penn., but in 1856 moved to La Crosse, where Louis Hirschheimer, father of the manufacturer, erected the first grist mill and the second sawmill to be built there. The mill burned in 1860, and soon after the elder Hirschheimer retired from active business.

Five years later Mr. Hirschheimer took over the tiny plowshop which had been opened by J. S. Bantam. J. M. Barclay was his partner in the concern until 1881, when Mr. Hirschheimer shouldered complete control of the plant. In 1893 Harry Hirschheimer, his son, entered the company as vice president, and seven years later Louis C. Hirschheimer, his second son, was taken into the concern as secretary.

The plant itself has grown from a small one-room shop until today it occupies more than two square blocks of land on North Third street and employs hundreds of men.

Diet of Ancient Athletes.

The actual diet used by the ancient Greek athletes consisted of a certain kind of cheese, specially prepared from goats' milk. Later on a flesh diet was introduced. The Romans, in the early stages of training, utilized a vegetarian form of diet, consisting of dried figs, new cheese, and boiled grain. Later on, again, meat was added to the list, but only one sort of flesh was thought suitable, and that, curiously enough, was pork, an edible absolutely banned by most modern trainers. Galen most firmly maintained that pork contains far more nutriment than any other flesh food. It certainly is a very significant fact that the ancient athletes complained that if they were forced, when in training, to live upon anything else but pork for any one meal their mental and physical forces alike were seriously impaired.

Porto Rico Telephone Plants.

The "telephone plant" is not easy to explain, nor to uproot. It is a growth of most peculiar habits, preferring electric wires to the nourishing earth. It is an air plant, something like an orchid. It has no roots, but derives its nourishment from the air, the seeds evidently being carried by the wind or birds and insects to some substance where they lodge and sprout. This growth is found most frequently on insulated wire, although it has been observed on bare iron wire that has rusted. It has never been seen on new bare iron, copper or wire cable, and causes little trouble, as the mass is seldom large enough to cross two wires.—Telephoning

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Prices fluctuated irregularly in the opening of the stock market today, but the "war orders" soon became weak and were sold at sharp recessions from yesterday. There was renewed selling of Crucible Steel which showed exceptional weakness in the first hour. When the stock touched 70—a drop of eight points since yesterday—the general market was affected, although many of the railroad shares held firm. Allis-Chalmers also declined sharply. There was rather heavy selling of all the speculative industrial issues, but none of the stocks were affected to the same extent as the "war shares."

Nothing developed in the day's news to account for the decline. The whole market appeared to be top-heavy however, and the long expected break in the group of stocks that have been advanced violently during the last few weeks quickly disclosed some large speculative holdings. United States Steel was fractionally lower, but as well taken on the decline. Some of the war stocks rallied partly toward the end of the first hour. In the final trading the prices improved and the market showed a better tone. Reading was active on the late advance and the market generally showed fair gains from the low level of the day.

ASSEMBLY RIOTS BECAUSE SENATE PROLONGS SESSION

Wild Scenes of Disorder
Mark Lower House Receipt of Word Senate
Has Still Work to Do

BITTERLY DENOUNCE COLLEAGUES

Strange Things Said by Disappointed Members Who Are Anxious to Go Home

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 14.—The session of the Wisconsin assembly came close to a riot last night. Its deliberations were marked with wild scenes of disorder. Anticipating that they would be able to complete their work by midnight, their entire attitude changed when a message came that the senate had adjourned until ten o'clock Saturday morning.

Denunciation of the senate broke like a whirlwind. Threats, entreaties, strong language were used by members in denouncing the members of the senate. Attempts to raise the call by the house was defeated, motions to enter into a gentlemen's agreement and go home for the night met with failure, and motions to adjourn were repeatedly voted down.

Meantime the flood gates of oratory broke loose. Things were said in the debate that sounded strangely. "Let us adjourn under a gentlemen's agreement, and when every member returns tomorrow, let him bring a rope and unless the senate does its work, we will do our duty to them," declared gray-haired Assemblyman Bradley of St. Croix county.

"We are a nuisance." "This legislature has been in session three months too long already," declared Assemblyman W. H. O'Brien of Kewaunee county. "The people are complaining against the length of this session, and rightly so. The people believe we are a nuisance."

Assemblyman Donnelly attempted by various methods of parliamentary tactics to secure a sine die adjournment of the legislature. His motion was ruled out of order by Speaker Whittier. Chief Clerk Shaffer reported that there was still pending in the senate three joint resolutions, seven senate bills and ten assembly bills, a majority of which were appropriation measures.

"Call these assembly bills back here from the senate and let's kill the whole shooting match with one blow," declared Assemblyman Carl Hansen.

Tries to Break Out

Bedlam reigned. Just at this stage Assemblyman C. L. Lathrop attempted to sneak through the doors of the assembly which were locked, but was caught by Policeman Wright and hurried back into the corridor. The assembly was fighting mad. Members walked up and down the aisles. There were cat calls, some yelling, loud talk. Members shouted to get the ear of the speaker. All this time Chief Clerk Shaffer was attempting to call the roll to ascertain the number of members present. Tired out, Assemblyman Ellingson of Rusk county stretched himself out on the red plush carpet in front of his seat. Some sang songs—"The body of the senate lies a mouldering in the grave"—"we won't go home 'till morning."

Yes, of course it was supposed to be a secret but secrets like a whole lot of other things will out and today the information was secured that the well known couple were married by Father Condon at St. Mary's church at 6 a. m., June 8.

Now that the cat is out of the bag, it is further ascertained that Mr. and Mrs. Arenz will make their home at 1526 Market street, that they have already furnished the home for occupancy and will be "at home" to their many friends after September 1.

They've Been Wed Two Months Admit Local Pair Today

From June 8 to August 14 is approximately 67 days and for approximately that time Miss Catherine Rooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rooney, 1234 La Crosse street, has been the bride of Albert Arenz, son of a Pearl Street shoe merchant.

VIROQUA BAND WILL PLAY HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Riverside park will resound with military airs, marches of the "boys in blue" and popular and classical music Tuesday night when the Wisconsin Third Regimental band of Viroqua will render an open-air concert.

"La Crosse has heard the West Salem Military band," said Alderman A. P. Funk today, in announcing the engagement Tuesday, "and now have another treat in store."

The Viroqua military aggregation has a splendid reputation all over Wisconsin. Frequently the organization is called upon to play at big state functions, and the state fairs are never complete without its music.

Drug Stores Are Worst Offenders Says Sealer Derr

Drug store scales are the worst offenders found by City Sealer E. H. Derr, according to his annual report filed with the city council last night. Two hundred and eighteen weighing devices in the pharmacies of La Crosse were condemned by the sealer in the last fiscal year, his report shows, while only 76 were thrown out of use in other establishments.

That the drug stores' offending scales were not, however, the prescription scales, is the opinion to be derived from the report, which recites that only two of such implements were condemned.

Derr inspected 1,276 scales and measuring devices. Three were adjusted and sealed, 41 condemned for repair and 76 thrown out altogether. Of 285 packages tested in 46 stores, but one was found whose label overstated its contents. All berry boxes coming into the state from outside were up to standard volume, the report declares.

PEACE IN MEXICO NOW RESTS WITH THE FIRST CHIEF

delivery to his military commanders of the Pan-American appeal to them for peace in Mexico?

To reach the leaders in his territory, it was necessary to cable the message by way of Vera Cruz. That it would be easy for the first chief to hold it up there was admitted.

The state department had received no intimation that he would do this. On the other hand it was recognized that it would not be a surprising development.

Authors Not Hopeful
The question was important. The appeal's authors were not hopeful that Carranza would respond to it willingly. What they did hope was

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 14.—The governors of the Mexican states Durango, Coahuila, Guerrero, Tepic, Sinaloa and Chihuahua, have announced they would support whatever peace plans Lansing and the Pan-American conferees might propose, according to advices reaching here this afternoon.

They added that in furtherance of their decision to bring about peace in Mexico they would repel with the military forces under their commands any invasion of their territory by any Villa, Carranza or other soldiers.

that it would prove effective with his most powerful lieutenants. If these could be induced to consent to a peace conference with the leaders of the other factions, it was considered that Carranza, robbed of his military support, would have to come to terms, whether he wished to do so or not.

The appeal had cleared from the state department telegraph room and it was said it ought to reach all the addressees within twenty-four hours unless interrupted with.

The department expected to make it public Sunday morning.

When the next Pan-American conference would be held, Secretary Lansing could not say exactly.

MORE BANDITS OUT
LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 15.—Eighty Mexican bandits under a leader named Cabrera are concentrating between Zapata and Rio Grande City, ninety miles from here, according to an American reaching here early today. He said the Zapata county cowboys are preparing to aid the Fourteenth cavalry detachment stationed at Zapata in giving the bandits a hot reception if they make an attack.

BOSSHARD OPPOSES HAMBRECHT CHOICE ON STATE BOARD

With Two Exceptions, However, Philipp's Appointments to Commissions Unanimously Confirmed

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 14.—All of Governor Philipp's appointees to state positions this week were confirmed by the senate yesterday. With two exceptions they were unanimously confirmed. George P. Hambrecht was confirmed 20 to 3. Senators Bosshard, Huber and Skogmo casting negative votes as a means of expressing their confidence in the retiring member of the industrial commission, C. H. Crownhart, who they hoped would be reappointed. Barney Moran, as confirmed as state oil inspector with Senators Bosshard, Huber, Monk and Skogmo voting no. Expressing his own views, he said, Senator Bosshard found it not to his liking to vote against his friend Moran, but that as chairman of the Oneida county board Moran had drawn over $900 as compensation and per diem in lobbying at Madison on forestry matters, traveling 5,600 miles at six cents a mile. He thought this was largely in excess of the statutory allowance. He did not impute anything dishonest in the transaction, however. Senators Jennings and Stevens said the people of Oneida county seemed to be legislating, for they elected Moran to the legislature.

John M. Whitehead, Janesville; George B. Hudnall, Superior, and W. H. Hatton, New London, were unanimously confirmed as members of the state board of public affairs, and H. S. Griswold of West Salem as Tenth district representative on the state fair board.

Governor Philipp appointed State Senator Louis G. Kellogg of Ripon, a democrat, on the state civil service commission to succeed T. J. Cunningham of Chippewa Falls for the term ending June 30, 1917.

be held within a week or two. President D. W. MacWillie of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club attended the meeting last night with a number of other business men, and they were invited to attend the committee meeting which will consider the matter at an early date not fixed.

May Ask Car Line Extension

The city may appeal to the railroad commission for an extension of the street car lines from Fourteenth and Farnam streets, where the terminus is now located, south to Mormon Coulee road, if a resolution introduced last night and referred to committees is adopted. The resolution calls upon the city attorney to make application to the railroad commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity commanding the street car company to make the extension.

The free bridge fight was also reopened by Alderman Mahoney with the introduction of an ordinance postponing the date of the free bridge from September 1 until January 1. By the terms of the ordinance the tolls in the extended period would be placed in a fund for repairing the bridges on the La Crosse turnpike. Mahoney attempted to have the measure passed at once under suspension of the rules, but the mayor and a number of aldermen objected so strenuously that the measure was referred to a committee. Mahoney asked that the ordinance be made part of the business to be taken up at the special meeting which will be held within two weeks.

Mahoney also had some other matters indirectly connected with the free bridge—one a resolution instructing the city attorney to discover if the creation of a free bridge does not make Minnesota a legally responsible for the upkeep of the La Crosse road, and the other a resolution demanding an investigation of recent repairs made, as the preamble recites, by unauthorized persons on the city's private highway into Minnesota. The preamble also mentions the recent death of Mrs. John E. Pearce, blaming the automobile accident which caused her death upon alleged unsafe manner in which the repairs were made. Both resolutions were adopted.

Riley License Refused
Andrew J. Riley's promises to the liquor license committee that he would conduct his saloon at 218 North Front street in accordance with the city regulations available nothing with the council. His second application for a license was refused as the first one had been, the vote last night being 7 to 12. Two members of the liquor license committee signed the report which favored granting the license, but Chairman Roth of the Twentieth ward made a strong fight on the floor against his committee's finding, and succeeded in his demand that Riley be refused.

Riley's supporters did not attempt to deny that conditions in his place had been bad—"the worst we found," Roth expressed it—but made their fight for him on the plea that he be given another chance. Incidentally, Alderman Roellig of the liquor license committee proposed a unique argument for Riley's license with the statement: "We've got to have such places. The men who lie around that kind of place can't go anywhere else. They aren't allowed in our nice saloons."

Asks Bond Issue For N. S. H. S.
Alderman Mahoney linked together the proposed north side high school and sewer construction in an ordinance he introduced last night calling for a $125,000 bond issue for the two purposes. The bonds, as provided in his measure, are to be of $500 denominations. The proposal was referred. Mahoney also introduced an ordinance making it unlawful to leave an automobile standing more than thirty minutes before any store. It was also referred.

Another automobile ordinance was introduced by Alderman Storand—a revival of the ordinance, shelved last year, prohibiting dazzling lights on vehicles on the city streets. The measure was referred.

Smith Succeeds Gale
J. E. Smith was elected by the council to succeed the late Joseph Gale as supervisor of the Fifth ward, after a brief fight had been made by Alderman Mahoney for Edward Wheeler. The vote was

Is There Some Undercurrent In The World War?

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—To the mystery caused here by the cancellation of wheat orders to the allies aggregating millions of bushels is added that of a similar cancellation of orders for horses. The situation, which is puzzling financial men throughout the world, remains an enigma here, where a large percentage of the wheat and horse orders for the allies are handled. Financiers even in London and Liverpool profess utter ignorance of the cause of the cancellations, no advices from the war office warranting the statement that successes for any of the belligerents would prompt the governments concerned to cause the cancellation.

MADISON GOLFERS DESCEND ON CITY

ilities is evinced by the fact that among the Madison contingent is Federal Judge A. L. Sanborn, and Justices of the Supreme Court John Barnes and R. H. Stebbins. Judge Sanborn's latest bid for a niche in the hall of golfing fame occurred in Milwaukee recently at the state tournament when he and his son Phil waltzed away with the Pater-Filius cup from a classy field of starters. Dr. C. R. Bardeen, another Madison entry, is a bacteriologist of more or less repute and if he swats the golf ball on the nose with the same degree of accuracy that he does a mere germ, his score should be well up with the leaders.

And then keep your eye on Professor Max Mason, another of the invading host. The professor can, it is reputed, make the most difficult angle look as simple as the shortest distance between two points and with Prof. W. L. Westerman, who helped put Ancient and Medieval history on the map, within hailing distance and willing to advise at crucial moments, Mr. Mason is a factor to be reckoned with, to say the least.

The visiting contingent, some of whom arrived Friday and took a "workout" on the course and others who were expected in at the last moment, enjoyed luncheon at the club and following the play will be guests at a dinner and dance. They will leave for Madison late tonight.

La Crosse was to have picked its representatives on the green from the following: George Van Aiken, R. D. Gordon, F. P. Hixon, F. H. Hankinson, P. M. Gelatt, A. M. Tourtellotte, E. Niemeyer, G. W. Collin Kidd, the last named of the above, is professional coach and tutor of the Madison club. W. B. Roys is captain. Owing to the late arrival of some of the Madisonians the pairings were not made until just before play started at 1:30.

Smith 17, Wheeler 2. A vain attempt to postpone the election for a month was made by Alderman Roth. A petition to have the city appropriate $300 for the maintenance of the festoon lights in the downtown business district was referred.

M'LOUGHLIN LOSES TO BEHR FOR RIGHT TO PLAY WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Tennis circles here were still gasping today at the unexpected victory of Karl H. Behr of New York, over Maurice E. McLoughlin, the California marvel, on the Sea Bright courts in the Achilles cup singles. The victory was as clean cut as it was surprising, Behr taking the match in straight sets. Behr's victory presents a new aspect to the national championships opening at Forest Hills August 30. McLoughlin, by his wonderful form this season, has been a top heavy favorite, but Behr's backers were coming strongly to the front today. This afternoon, Behr will meet R. Norris Williams, second, of Philadelphia crack, for the Achilles cup.

PEPIN CHAMPIONS MEET ATHLETES

Pepin, holder of the 1914 championship of the middle northwestern district of Wisconsin, plays tomorrow at League park, meeting the Trainmen. The game is expected to prove one of the diamond treats of the year.
Ritter, veteran of four years around these parts, will do the mound work for the locals.

ATHLETES RETURN GAME WITH CASHTON

Will Cashton gain revenge for the trimming administered them last Sunday at League park when they meet the Athletes of La Crosse in their home town tomorrow?
Merritt Bell, La Crosse man, will do the throwing for Cashton, and Fay Copey will be on the mound for the Athletes.

It's useless to be good unless you are good for something.

COMPTON CASE INDICATES THE LAW'S STERN HAND IS TURNED AGAINST FEDS

American association club owners are taking a great deal of satisfaction in the fact that attorneys for the St. Louis Federal league club have given up the fight to keep Pete Compton, who flopped from the Kansas City American association team. This means that the law will not permit the Feds to make raids on the association clubs which use the same sort of a contract which Compton had with Kansas City.

Where The Teams Play Tomorrow

Trainmen vs. Pepin, at League park.
Majestics vs. Diamonds, at Copeland park.
Nelson Clothing company vs. Rochester at Rochester.
W. B. U. Athletes vs. Cashton, at Cashton.

Yes, if He is.
"A man dat has a powerful good opinion of hisself," said Uncle Eben, "ought to git three cheers if he's honestly tryin' to deserve it."

BANDITS COME TO LIFE

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Chicago's auto bandits came to life in the Loop again today when Rudy Feige, assistant cashier of a seed company, was attacked by two men and relieved of a hand-bag containing $762.50.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

That puny little combat being waged on the other side of the Atlantic had no charms for New Yorkers today. Not with John McGraw and Wilbert Robinson grappling and no holds barred.

It's been a long time since Jack Coombs has had a chance at the Giants—back in 1910 when he licked 'em in the world's series. He turned the trick again yesterday.

George Stallings probably blames Friday the 13th for the licking his Braves took. The Braves have a swell chance to crawl to the top if they can beat Philadelphia the next three.

Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched and won his game yesterday. Now the Braves have a chance.

Friday the 13th, however, was not without its effect. The Reds slipped over a win on the Pirates.

Now that the Reds are for sale, maybe they'll start winning some games. Stranger things have happened.

Newark climbed within one game of the Federal league lead by blanking the Chifs.

William Donovan got away in grand shape in a strategy tilt with Cornelius McGillicuddy. In the twelfth, with one man on, Mack had Wyckoff pass Cook and Hartzell to get at King Cole. Then Wild William crossed the tall tactician by shooting in Slim Caldwell and the game was over. Slim binged one.

NELSONS TO HOOK UP WITH CLOTHIERS

The acceptance by the Nelsons of the challenge of the Clothiers for a game has borne fruit. In a conference last night between Managers Bartel and Evenson of the Clothiers and Nelsons respectively it was arranged that a game be played at Onalaska August 22.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The grain market continued its downward course today aided by continued talk of export cancellations. The main bear factor, however, was good weather for gathering the spring wheat crop and good growing weather for corn. Grain houses said that whatever loss had resulted from a wet harvest for winter wheat it would be made up in heavy yield of spring. September opened up 1/4c but subsequently lost steadily and closed at a net loss of 2 1/2c, closing at 105 1/2. December lost 1/4c at the opening and subsequently lost 3/4c additional, closing at 106 1/4.

Corn opened weak but unchanged and in the short session September lost 1/4c and December 1/4c.

Oats were tame all day and lost because of the weakness in wheat and the favorable weather. September and December each opened down 1/4c and subsequently lost 3/4c in each month.

Provisions were featureless but slightly lower on hogs at the yards.

FRANK GOTCH MAY BE ANOTHER COME-BACK; ASKS ONLY $35,000 TO MEET JOE STECHER, THE YOUTHFUL WRESTLING PHENOM

Frank Gotch declares that for $35,000 he will come out of his retirement and return to the mat. Wrestling fans are very anxious to see him have a fling or so with Joe Stecher, the young wonder who seems to have all others outclassed. Gotch, by the way, gave Stecher some of his early points. Several of Stecher's performances are shown in the accompanying illustration.

ANDERSON ELECTRICS AT LOWER PRICES

Although from time to time there have been low priced electric cars placed on the market, the Detroit Electric is the first high grade car to make any material reduction in price. Notwithstanding the fact that the reductions run from $600 to $725 the quality of these cars will not be cheapened in the slightest particular," declared W. C. Anderson, president of the Anderson Electric Car company. "In fact, for 1916 Detroit Electric cars embody a number of refinements typifying the latest practices in automobile engineering. It has been found necessary to double our production in order to meet the demands our dealers have received, and this greatly increased production permits of so many marked economies that we have been able to put into effect these lower prices without departing from the high standard of quality."

Another noteworthy change in the policy of the Anderson Electric Car company for 1916 is the adoption of the one-chassis basis production. This one chassis has been brought to the highest degree of perfection that the world's largest builders of enclosed cars can attain, and upon this one chassis is built four body styles. The floor space of the plant has been greatly augmented to facilitate and expedite production.

The Detroit Electric is a practicable automobile in any town having electricity, because of its great power and easy riding qualities, which make it an interurban car as well as a motor for driving about town.

The officials of the Anderson Electric Car company are looking forward to the next year as one of the best that the electric car industry has ever experienced. The obvious advantages of the enclosed car are establishing themselves more strongly in the favor of motorists with each passing year and the Detroit Electric represents the highest type of the all year round, every day, and all weather car. A further reason for its popularity is the fact that it can be as easily and safely operated by mother, wife and daughter as by the head of the family, and consequently many men figure that they get a greater return for their investment in the Detroit Electric than in any other type of car.

EDGAR SELWYN IN "THE ARAB" FILMS

Edgar Selwyn, the distinguished Broadway star and dramatist, will make his initial photodramatic appearance under Lasky management in a picturization of his own drama, "The Arab," which will be the attraction on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 15, 16 and 17, at the Bijou. A couple of years back Mr. Selwyn played an extremely successful engagement in this place at one of the leading New York theaters and thereafter enjoyed a remarkably prosperous tour in the same vehicle.

Mr. Selwyn, who has for several years ranked as one of the leading lights of the American stage, made his first stage appearance with William Gillette at the Garrick theater New York, in 1896, and since has been one of the leading lights of the American drama. In addition to his activities as actor and playwright, Mr. Selwyn has been a member of the firm of Selwyn and Company, which has within a year retired from the business of play brokerage to devote its energies to theatrical management.

ITALIAN WARSHIP SINKS SUBMARINE

ROME, Aug. 14.—The Austrian submarine U-3 was sunk in the lower Adriatic by Italian warships Thursday. It was officially announced.

The U-3 is the second Austrian submarine sunk by the Italians this week, sinking of the U-12 having been announced Wednesday night. The U-3 was built in 1908, was 142 feet long and displaced 293 tons below surface. Normally she carried seventeen men.

Forget It.

One of the most successful merchants in New York tells how he would get to the store at eight o'clock in the morning and remain there until nine or ten o'clock at night. He maintains that it was his capacity for the most grinding sort of work, the most earnest, enthusiastic effort, that made for his success. He claims that his whole organization set their hearts and souls into the business, and then the business reaped the proportionate reward. Young man, stand up and let me trim you. Big men, with big brains, plenty of health and lots of cash behind them have been compelled to work early and late for their success. And I want to ask you, in the name of common sense, where do you get your right to think you are going to do what can't be done—get on without work? Forget it!—From the Silent Partner

STANDARD OIL TO ERECT BIG OFFICE BUILDING AT ONCE

Modern Two-story Structure Will Be Ready by the Middle of October

A modern two story office building that for architectural design, thoroughness and general utility will equal if not surpass any other similar building in the city, with the exception of buildings devoted entirely to offices, will be erected, and ready for occupancy by the middle of October, by the Standard Oil company on their V-shaped tract of land situated to the north of the Burlington crossing on the causeway.

The building, according to specifications already submitted to Manager W. W. Holcomb, will have a frontage of 73 feet on the Causeway and will extend back 43 feet. The present structure, 130 by 40 feet, which contains the offices, has been outgrown by the steady increase of business in this territory, and will be turned into a sub-warehouse, to be used in connection with the one now in use.

The new building, which has been designed by H. P. Beers, architect of Chicago, will have fifteen minor offices and one large general office. The entrance will be constructed of marble, as will the corridors and general interior finishings. Every modern office appliance that will tend to increase efficiency will be installed. Mr. Holcomb says.

The new building will be put up by local contractors. Bids have already been advertised for and six La Crosse contractors have made or are contemplating making offers. Because of this fact the approximate cost of the building cannot be made public at this time, but officers of the company say no expense will be spared to make the new structure

MRS. DUDLEY WON FRIENDS WITH HER. BIG PERSONALITY

Deceased West Salem Woman Had Nature That Found Friends in All Classes; Loved by All

WEST SALEM, Wis., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Marion Bailey Dudley, prominent West Salem woman who died at La Mesa, Cal., August 2, was born in Mansfield, Mass., October 3, 1852.

She was united in marriage to Wilbur I. Dudley October 9, 1876.

Mrs. Dudley was widely known in this and adjoining counties and was greatly admired and loved by a very large circle of friends, having a nature that found friends among all classes and a personality that was able to hold them.

Her life was characterized by a very large and gracious hospitality, and the beautiful farm home in which she lived for so many years has been one of the best known places in La Crosse county and one in which many happy hours and days can be recalled by those who have been entertained there.

She is survived by three sons, George W. Dudley of the La Crosse County bank of West Salem; Walter Dudley of Omaha, Neb., and Sherman L. Dudley, who is farming the handsome old home farm.

Three daughters also survive her. Mrs. Lucius Porter, who has been a missionary in China for several years, Miss Phoebe Dudley, who has been in Y. W. C. A. work in Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Jennie Dudley. Six grandchildren also survive her.

In a recent issue of the La Crosse TRIBUNE the announcement of Mrs. Dudley's death told of the visit that Mr. and Mrs. Dudley and their daughter Phoebe were making to points of interest on the Pacific coast, of their plan to meet Rev. and Mrs. Lucien Porter in southern California on their arrival from China and how their plans were interrupted by the stroke of paralysis which was suffered at Tulare.

After a short interval she was removed to La Mesa, her condition being seemingly improved enough to warrant it, but a recurrence of the malady brought the end quickly and she died with her husband and her children, the eagerly expected grandchildren and the members of the Porter family to whose home she had been brought.

It was a pathetic ending of a beautiful trip, as of that other and more beautiful trip called life, yet it was not without its gratifying side: it was an ending that did not incur long suffering or a protracted period of helplessness and which has left none but tender and beautiful memories with those who loved her.

Mrs. Dudley and those of her family who journeyed home with her reached home with the precious wife and mother on Monday afternoon at half-past one o'clock.

The funeral exercises were held in the Congregational church at 4 o'clock of that afternoon and it was in the midst of a profusion of exquisite flowers which spoke eloquently of the love of many friends that the last words were said and the last farewell taken.
